PTA gets underway at Rex Reeves here

A steering committee Friday voted to begin formation of a Parent-Teacher Association for Rex Reeves Elementary School and set May 14 as the time for an organizational meeting.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Rex Reeves cafeteria.

At the Friday meeting Mrs. Ann Carlisle, who is serving as chairman, told the group of 14 women present that she had made a telephone survey and had found that 75 per cent of those contacted were in favor of a PTA group at Rex Reeves.

She called children "the nation's most important assets" and added that "as parents we have an obligation to our children to see that the best possible facilities, materials, teachers and atmosphere are available to our school."

Mrs. Troyce Mulherin, president of the Gene Howe PTA told the group of their active organization, and Gene Howe principal Luther Lawless cited the ways in which the South Amarillo school had benefited from PTA.

Mrs. Claude Currie of Amarillo, president of PTA District 8, told the group of the advantages of a local parent-teacher group being affiliated with the state and national organization.

After the discussion by Mrs. Currie, the steering committee voted to join the state and national groups.

Mrs. Carlisle was elected temporary chairman and Mrs. Ann Bell was elected temporary secretary. They will serve until the permanently organized group holds a general election.

Five committees were also set up. They are:

By-laws — Chairman, Mrs. Billie Ruth Clark, Mrs. Linda Ray, Mrs. Janet Perry and Mrs. Carlisle.

Publicity — Chairman, Mrs. Joy Davis, Mrs. Anita Alder, Mrs. Marie Kershen, Mrs. Bonita Oliver and Mrs. Mary Green.

Hospitality — Chairman, Mrs. Barbara Tucek, Mrs. Sharon Thompson and Mrs. Bell.

Membership — Chairman, Mrs. Mary Ellen Jeter and Mrs. Ray.

Program — Chairman, Mrs. Carlisle and Mrs. Mary Staton.

In telling of the need for a PTA group at Canyon's elementary school, Mrs. Carlisle said the most important aspect was in showing children that parents care about their welfare and education. "It is important that the children know that we care enough to get involved," she said.

'Mass' drugnet nets only two

A drug raid in Canyon early Thursday which was initially billed as the largest raid in city history ended Thursday afternoon with charges filed against two persons.

Thirteen persons, 11 of them students at West Texas State University, were arrested about 12:15 a.m. Thursday. Eleven were released from Randall County Jail about noon Thursday after charges were filed against only two.

Dan Lerich Reid, 19 an Amarillo forklift driver, was charged with possession of marijuana, and Josephin Verver, 22, a WTSU student, was charged with possession of narcotic paraphernalia.

The two appeared before Justice of the Peace W. A. "Bill" Wilson at noon Thursday and bonds were set.

Concurrently, the eleven others arrested were released from jail.

The early morning raid on two apartments in an apartment house at 2001 1st Ave. here was accomphshed by officers with the Department of Public Safety narcotics division, Metro Intelligence Unit, Randall County Sheriff's office and the Canyon Police Department.

Dist. Atty. George Dowlen admitted late last week it is unusual to arrest a large number of persons and later fail to charge them with a violation.

"We feel that there were two who we had sufficient evidence to file complaints," he said. "We won't be filing on the other 11."

Previous mass drug raids in the Amarillo-Randall County area have been aimed primarily at alleged sellers of drugs rather than at users.

Dowlen said officers participating in the raid decided

The lines began forming Friday at the Randall County tax office as residents filed in to purchase their 1973 license plates. The tax office remained open Saturday morning and the lines were even longer. License plates must be on all cars by midnight today.

City election set Tuesday

Three men will vie for two places on the Canyon City Commission when the polls open Tuesday for elections here.

Incumbents Dr. Willis Harrison and Felix Pierce seek re-election. Dr. J. Pat Stephens has challenged Pierce in the election to one place on the commission.

Polls open at the Canyon Community Center at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

A light voter turnout is predicted for the election. Absentee balloting ended Friday afternoon with nine ballots cast.

Last year 95 persons voted in the city election.

More than 5,000 persons are registered to vote in the city election Tuesday.

Dr. Harrison is a local dentist, who seeks election to a full term on the commission. He was appointed two years ago to replace Commissioner Ken Olsen who was forced to resign from the commission by the state due to a law which prohibited college professors from holding office.

The law was amended last November by Texas voters and a college professor, Dr. Stephens, is back on the ballot. Stephens is a professor of political science at West Texas State University.

Pierce has served on the commission two prior terms. He is a retired Canyon businessman.

Voters in Tuesday's election will use paper ballots to cast their decisions in the race.

They will also have the opportunity to vote for or against a proposition calling for the repeal of a section of the city charter and the adoption of a new section.

Current city commissioners are waging a campaign themselves seeking voter approval of the proposal, which would bring Canyon's charter concerning the acquisition of public utilities into line with state law.

An advertisement appears in this issue of The Canyon News urging citizens to vote for the proposition.

And, during last week's meetings of Canyon business men's clubs, commissioners handed out form letters backing the proposal.

The letter explains: "The intent of Section 3:17 C (the city charter section) was originally intended to protect the community if the quality of service rendered by a public utility deteriorated. Until recently, this section has not been utilized as franchises currently held by utility companies were granted prior to the adoption of the charter. There is no uniform method of determining fair value and we have found that without legislative or constitutional standards the implementation of section 3:17 C is almost impossible."

Clinic, cattle legislation closer to passage--Poff

Three bills which will impact on the Panhandle cattle raising industry came a step closer to passage last week in the Texas House.

The bill calling for establishment of the veterinary medical diagnostic clinic proposed for West Texas State University was sent Thursday by the House committee on education to the full House for consideration.

Rep. Bryan Poff, author of the bill, guided the legislation through his subcommittee on higher education and then through the education committee.

The legislation will create a West Texas Animal Health Center on the WTSU campus under direction of the Texas A&M Board of Regents.

Construction calls for expenditure of $900,000 while the payroll during the first year of operation is anticipated at more than $100,000.

"We still have quite a way to go on this bill," Poff said, "but we are encouraged by the fact that the bill moved through the committees so smoothly."

Smooth sailing was also encountered by Poff and fellow Legislator Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas for two bills designed to ease stringent scabies quarantine regulations.

The bills were heard Thursday in the House committee considering livestock legislation. A delegation of Panhandle cattlemen including Nolen Henson of Happy testified before the committee.

Current regulations require that cattle be dipped for scabies before being moved into or within a quarantined area. One bill sponsored by Poff and Cobb will allow cattle to be sprayed

WT candidates to be reviewed by Regents at Austin meeting

Chairman Cloyce K. Box of the West Texas State University Board of Regents said Saturday a screening committee advising on the selection of a new president "has completed its work and has delivered its report to him."

The five-member committee was appointed several months ago to serve in an advisory capacity to the board in the selection of a successor to President James P. Cornette who will retire next year.

Box of Dallas said he will deliver the committee's report to a special meeting of the board Friday. The meeting will be at the Austin Club in the Commodore Perry Building in Austin starting at 10 a.m.

"In its work, the screening committee dealt only with written applications and recommendation and held no personal interviews," Box said in a statement.

At Friday's meeting, the regents "will give consideration to the recommendations made by the screening committee and determine which candidates will be invited to the campus for personal interviews," he said.

"It is presently anticipated that these interviews will be conducted between the close of the Easter holidays and the end of the spring semester," Box added.

The university will be in spring recess April 16-23 and semester will end May 18.

The screening committee was composed of three non-university persons, Bill Montgomery of Amarillo, J. Pat Malone of Hereford and Wayne Rankin of Plainview, and Dr. John E. Green, dean of the School of Fine Arts, and Dr. Jerry Miller, chairman of the Faculty Council.

Box did not say in his statement how many candidates were named in the committee's report.

However, The News learned last week that the screening committee was expected to trim the number of applicants to eight.

Earlier he said each candidate invited to the campus would be presented at a reception open to students, faculty, citizens and news media.

In addition, he said, arrangements will be made for visitational opportunities with each candidate by representatives of the administration, instructional faculty and student body.

"Opportunities will be provided for members of these

Labor leader blasts Nixon

Texas labor leader Roy Evans wielded a double-edged scythe Friday night as he lambasted President Nixon then did an about-face and blasted national labor leader George Meany.

Evans, speaking to members of Omicron Delta Epsilon on the West Texas State University campus, also took broad slices at several Texas industries and the Texas legislature.

A labor leader in Texas for 20 years, Evans is currently president of the state AFL-CIO.

And, he's an outspoken critic of current Nixon economic policies.

Evans labeled President Nixon's Thursday night speech to the American people a political reaction which will solve no problems.

"We're also political animals and we recognize that Nixon's speech was a political reaction rather than a real action," he charged. "So was his reaction two years ago when this nation was in a terrible mess."

Evans said Nixon's policies are no different from Calvin Coolidge's or Herbert Hoover's, and that the Nixon program of wage and price controls is leading the country into socialism.

"I think because of the political reactions we've had from Nixon, this nation is closer to socialism than it ever has been," he said. "It's closer than it has been in any Democratic administration."

The labor leader charged that Nixon used inflation as a scapegoat, transferring the American peoples' minds from the real economic problems in the country.

He said if controls are placed on wages and prices by the federal government, they should also be placed on profits.

Taking various corporations, he noted that Sears last year posted a net profit gain of 11.5 per

Don't raise prices, food official warns

The rise in food prices and concurrent rise in consumer awareness and complaints should spur local restaurant operators not to raise prices, but to re-examine their business operation with an eye to effecting economies.

That's the message W. H. "Buckshot" Price, executive vice president of the Texas Restaurant Association, brought with him to Canyon Thursday night.

Price outlined during an interview Thursday afternoon prior to a scheduled speech here to the Panhandle association the effects consumerism and high prices are having on the restaurant business in Texas.

"The dollar volume in food service is doing nicely this year," Price said. "It is up. But the percent remaining as profit, which is what we're most interested in, is eroded because of high prices."

Price, whose speech title for the Thursday night meeting was "Don't raise Prices, Raise Hell," said he advises food service operators to take a close look at their operations and raise prices only as a final resort.

"I tell operators that the consumer, the public, doesn't have to come in his establishment to eat," he said. "There is no way he can force them into his place and if he starts raising prices, they can go some place else or they can stay at home."

The old days, says Price, are gone in the food service business, the days when the operator could simply price a full menu and con-

U.S. often misled by Soviets says veteran diplomat Bohlen

"Russia does not want to rule the world," veteran diplomat Charles "Chip" Bohlen told a large audience at West Texas State University Thursday night. But he added that the Kremlin leaders do want communism to be the government of the world.

The retired expert on Russian affairs and confidant of Presidents said the term "world domination" was misleading due to Russia knowing that they could never have absolute control of all countries. "They can't run the world with 15 men from the Kremlin," Bohlen said.

He cited several Communist governments today which are independent of Russia, other than for ideology.

Another apparently little known aspect of the Soviet Union advanced by Bohlen is their credit record. According to the former statesman, Communist Russia has always paid its debts to other countries.

This, Bohlen said, was important to the Soviets who depend heavily on imports. He made the statement in a question-answer session following his address when a member of the audience asked if he thought the United States would be paid for wheat recently sold to Russia.

The bulk of Bohlen's text dealt with U.S.-Soviet relations. Diplomatic relations, he said, had been broken in 1917 following the Bolshevic Revolution and had not been resumed until 1933 under then President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Over the years, Russia and the United States have had no basic conflicts "and we have none now," said Bohlen. He cited friendliness of the two countries during the American Civil War, and the sale to the U.S. of Alaska for only a little more than $7 million. He described the sale of Alaska, now one of our richest states, as a friendly gesture on the part of Russia.

Bohlen described Lenin, Stalin, and other Soviet leaders as "remarkable men" but also cruel, brutal, and immoral. The speaker said the leaders were "dedicated to the Marxist theory" and felt that "they were destined by history to be the leaders of world revolution."

Speaking of the differences in Lenin and Stalin, Bohlen said that William C. Bullitt, the first U.S. Ambassador to Russia after Roosevelt restored relations in 1933, was "frustrated and disappointed" in finding that Stalin's policies differed so much from those previously advanced by Lenin.

In saying that the U.S. has often been misled by Soviet leaders, Bohlen cited the return of frustration and disappointment when Finland was at-

No attorney in Pa. cases Zilka says

Convicted Rapist Anthony Martin Zilka told Judge E. E. "Gene" Jordan in 47th District Court Friday morning he was never advised of his right to an attorney and in fact never had an attorney when he was convicted on several charges in Pennsylvania 20 years ago.

Zilka, appearing in a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in Amarillo, alleges that since he had no attorney in the Pennsylvania cases in 1953, he should be given a retrial in Randall County on his 1964 rape case.

Jordan, after hearing almost an hour of testimony from Zilka and Randall County Dist. Atty. George Dowlen, said he will

Haters Now Want Amnesty For Dodgers

By ANN BROWN

The hate-America crowd seemed to have had their fangs pulled when the POW's began coming home. But already they have their teeth in a new cause: amnesty for draft dodgers!

Many patriotic citizens are at a loss to comprehend what has happened to America. During W.W. II a draft dodger would no more have admitted he was dodging the draft than he would have confessed to treason.

Now the draft dodgers number some 100,000, and it is the young man who serves his country who is made to feel guilty.

Could such a complete change in attitude have "just happened" in one generation?

The Congressional Record contains a speech made Oct. 18, 1951, by John T. Wood, of Idaho, in the House of Rep., which could explain the radical change in American thinking.

The Hon. Mr. Wood's remarks were a commentary on "A Report to the American People on UNESCO" by the American Flag Committee of 876 Granite St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Woods asserted that the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) "is consciously furthering a campaign calculated to pervert the teaching profession . . . and so destroy the worth and integrity of America's first bulwark of freedom — our tax-supported public schools."

Woods supported his strong words by citing a series of 9 volumes published by UNESCO, titled TOWARD WORLD UNDERSTANDING, which "presumes to instruct kindergarten and elementary teachers in the fine art of preparing our youngsters for the day when their first loyalty will be to a world government." (Does anyone question what that government will be?)

Booklet V, "In the Classroom With Children Under 13 Years of Age," declares according to Wood, that the "prime function of public education in the U.S. must be that of capturing the minds of our children, at the earliest possible age, for the cause of political world government.

"The teacher is to begin by eliminating any and all words, phrases, descriptions, pictures, maps, classroom material or teaching methods of a sort causing his pupils to feel or express a particular love for, or loyalty to, the United States of America."

Teachers were further admonished to combat the "prejudices" the child had acquired at home because "it is frequently the family that infects the child with extreme nationalism. The school should therefore . . . combat family attitudes that favor jingoism . . . educators could also try to influence public opinion."

The stated aim of UNESCO is to "secure for all children education . . . which alone can create the atmosphere in which development of world-mindedness is conceivable."

Apparently, many teachers have followed UNESCO's instructions quite well. One area public school music teacher is leaving the profession after only one year. He reported many of his students impudently refused to sing either hymns or patriotic songs. They sneer at God, and declare they would rather live in Cuba or Russia than the U.S.

Parents bewildered by their children's strange attitudes might find a perusal of school textbooks illuminating.

QUEST FOR LIBERTY, AND PERSPECTIVES IN UNITED STATES HISTORY, published by Field Ed. 1972, is a high school text that disparages fundamental Christianity, respect for parents, personal morality, and other traditional American values.

MANY PEOPLES ONE NATION, a 5th grade American History book published by Random House 1973, engenders racial hatred through a heavy emphasis on discrimination.

Our glorious American heritage is presented to 5th grade children in these words: ". . . No nation on earth is guilty of practices more shocking and bloody than is the United States . . . Go where you may and search were you will . . . Then you will agree with me that, for revolting barbarity and shameless hypocrisy, America has no rival." (p. 88)

Would anyone expect children educated on that kind of fare to fight for their country?

No Need For Metro

By CARROLL WILSON

With the resignation recently of T. Boone Pickens from the West Texas State University Board of Regents, many people concerned with selection of the next university president now believe that Bill Miller is liable to be next chief administrator.

It has been said that Pickens was staunch in his belief that the best man should be found for the job and that Board Chairman Cloyce Box has favored Miller for the job all along.

Box, some say, now will be able to push for Miller unhampered by Regent opposition.

I'd hate to think the screening committee and the work of several other persons around the area has all been window dressing.

Based on past results, the Potter-Randall Metro Intelligence Unit is hard-pressed, as far as I'm concerned, in proving it should exist for another year.

The unit is seeking approval this week from the City of Canyon of its proposed budget for next year of $183,701. The city and Randall County pay a portion of that — primarily the $103,000 for salaries for the Metro squadmen.

The unit is seeking $80,000 from the federal government through the state Criminal Justice Council.

The original organization of the Metro unit was the result of the old band-wagon effect. The federal government several years ago placed a priority on spending for anti-crime programs.

At that time, federal money was easily obtained for almost any innovative program and the Amarillo Police Department jumped into it with both feet.

Their idea was to form a cooperative agency which would investigate special cases and provide information for all participating agencies.

Now, the federal government is placing some stipulations on the use of its money and the primary stipulation is that the money must go to fight so-called "organized crime."

In response to this governmental decree, the Metro squad has tried to tailor its function to meet the demands. Naturally, the members of the Metro unit want to stay in their exclusive undercover jobs.

Unfortunately, the Metro unit's functions just don't realistically mesh with what the federal government says it must be doing to gather funding.

Local law enforcement officials are hard-pressed to say there is even so much as a little organized crime in this end of the state.

Capt. James Carver, head of the Metro unit, even admitted in our March 25 issue that there is little organized crime here.

Can we afford as taxpayers of the nation as well as of the area to continue to fund an agency without a purpose, an agency which historically concentrated on busting a handful of grass smokers here and there and on the mounting of a narcotics raid elsewhere?

I believe we cannot.

I believe, however, there is need for an office — administrative office only — to handle inter-unit communication for the law enforcement agencies now involved in the Metro unit.

Metro should be dissolved and the agencies should pool a fraction of the resources they are now spending on Metro for a two-man office to shuffle correspondence and information back and forth between agencies, if that is what we need.

What we don't need is another law enforcement agency the members of which lack an acceptable goal and main function of which is having less than significant effect on an activity which does not even exist in the Panhandle.

Siftin' With Sands

Early Bird Gets Got

By JIM SANDS

Being the type person I am, I just can't understand why so many people wait until the last minute to take care of things. Saturday, while standing in line at the courthouse to buy my new license plates, I asked several why they had not bought theirs earlier.

"I just like to get the most use I can out of the old ones," said an admitted conservative.

Another said he had waited in fear that his car might be repossessed. "I'd just lose another 20 bucks if I bought them too early and then lost the car," he said.

Reminded me of my never wanting to get in too big a hurry to fill up the gas tank. Just look at all the money that goes down the drain when vehicles with full gas tanks get banged up in wrecks . . . or have to be parked for lack of repair.

I had to admit that the reasons given were valid, just like mine. Had I bought mine a month ago, I would have had no one to talk to while standing in line.

Many people are also last-minute types when it comes to filing income tax returns and the like. Some reporters wait until just before deadline time before starting their stories, often getting their copy jerked out of the typewriter by an irate typesetter.

But, thanks to my promptness, things like that

Reader Assails 'Sick' News

Dear Mr. Martin,

The free ads should get many new readers. Since I'm not from the Palisades, Tanglewood, Wayside, or Amarillo and since I'm not a member of Canyon Chamber of Commerce, I feel that the paper will get so dull when all the mud slinging at WTSU is no longer printed, or do you plan on an attack on the new President of WT as soon as he is selected? Perhaps Ann Brown can find a Bible scripture to say in behalf of the Board of Regents when they find a new President. Of course, no one will ever please the Canyon News because they think poorly of Mr. Box (or Triangle) and they have never been really complimentary of President Cornette (or Trumpette). . . referring to Carroll Wilson's sick editorial of Sunday March 25). . . . . If I were thinking of coming to WT as a candidate to look over the situation; I would wonder if I would hear cruel remarks of how the college should be run or if instead I would have to prove myself to this paper in some way. I might just have second thoughts before I moved to a town with such a newspaper. Even if Mr. C.N. Cosby likes a dull, dirty town, not too many intellectual people find it very stimulating without the college here.

Did you ever stop to think what an absolute vibrant town Canyon would be if WT University should combine with Wayland College and move to Hale Center? The Canyon News just might die on the vine if this fact were possible as Mr. Brown suggests. The front page would have to turn to Ladies Club Bulletins to make up a front page. Where would you be then?????

I'm sure you must have missed out on some of Mr. Tommy Thompsons' great words of wisdom about WT in the past few weeks. He puts in some little barb about every day. The Amarillo Globe News is really pushing Amarillo Junior College. I read very exciting things about their numerous night classes and their great strides ahead while WT is written up as if it were on the very brink of disaster. His writing is not too intelligent, but he writes something about how the new President must operate WT and since he has the advantage of the printed page as you do, then he can say every thing his little heart desires. Aren't you ashamed to see him have so many answers about how a University should be run? Of course, Amarillo does not support WT. . . . It is trying to build up Amarillo Junior College image. This is so evident in their paper. But your paper could build up WT's image. You could work with the WT Public Relations (are they dead?). What has happened to your communications there? Someone is dead.

If you were proud of Canyon and WT (and this goes for the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and Chairman Raymond Raillard) you would have the vision to get behind a less negative attitude and brag on something for a change. We know your little tender feelings were mashed by the Board of Regents, but no newspaper is small enough to be so personal unless the paper is out to smear or hurt others. For a change write about the success of the ex-students of WT, the teachers who have dedicated their lives for the University, the growth, the need to have it grow more.

How much harm have you already dealt to individuals and to this community who welcomed you as our newspaper representative? A poor little paper trying to reach its readers with sick editorials; who belittles and sneers because of a personal conflict. How small and petty!

If I were a nominee for the job of President of WT, and had read that last week's paper, I would look for a job, many, many miles away from Canyon and Amarillo. A new President does not need Tommy Thompson's advice on how to run a University or the ugly comments published by the Canyon News to help entice him to make up his mind on what kind of support he would get from this community if he should move here. I do think the students would get behind him if you didn't spend so much time down-grading the job as if they hadn't had a President there for the past twenty years. What an ugly commentary the papers have painted of the President and the University.

Grow up, think big, write an apology for the sick news you have been printing. Do something constructive for our community for a change. Maybe you can get Ann Brown to find a scripture for you and the mess you have made of things!

"Do you dare print this"????????? Check with your analysts!

Reader Urges Letters To Combat O'Hair

Mr. Martin,

Recently I received a letter and would appreciate very much your printing it.

"We are always saying "One person cannot do much to change the world." But one person, Madeline Murry O'Hair, the athiest crusader, succeeded in making it illegal to read the Bible or pray in public schools. Now she has obtained 27,000 signed letters protesting the decision of the astronauts to read the Bible, as Christian message to the world from their space craft while orbiting the world in December 1968. She plans to present these to NASA with demand that astronauts be publicly censured for their act, and further demand to prohibit any further Demonstrations of Religion by Public Leaders."

You can do something about this. An effort is being made now to secure 1,000,000 signed letters commending the astronauts for their actions. This will be an overwhelming defeat for Mrs. O'Hair, and a great triumph for religious faith."

This is the form letter I received;

OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF CANYON

We would like to encourage you to vote "for" the Charter Amendment proposition on your April 3rd ballot.

The intent of Section 3:17 C was originally intended to protect the community if the quality of service rendered by a public utility deteriorated. Until recently this section has not been utilized as franchises currently held by utility companies were granted prior to the adoption of the Charter. There is no uniform method of determining fair value, and we have found that without legislative or constitutional standards the implementation of Section 3:17 C is almost impossible.

Therefore, we recommend that Section 3:17 C be amended to permit the City to utilize the right of eminent domain under Texas law as it concerns public utility companies. We would like to emphasize that this proposition is not meant as a threat to any of our public utilities.

We urge your support for our efforts to maintain a good relationship between your City and our public utility companies and ask that you vote "for" the amendment proposal April 3rd.

F.H.A. Week To Be Marked In Canyon

The 48 members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter at Canyon High School have scheduled a variety of activities to coincide with National F.H.A. Week, April 1 through 7.

Shelley Dozier, president of the chapter at CHS, said Wednesday has been designated as F.H.A. Color Day at the school and that cupcakes will be sold to members of the student body.

During that designated day, Miss Dozier said, all F.H.A. members will wear red and white attire.

The theme chosen for this year's National F.H.A. Week is "Explore Roles — Extend Goals." It is intended to focus attention on what over half-a-million young men and women in F.H.A. and H.E.R.O. chapters throughout the country are doing to explore the multiple roles individuals play in family, community and career life.

Last week, Mayor J. Manly Bryan proclaimed the week of April 1 through 7 to be National F.H.A. Week in Canyon.

Officials of the CHS chapter are, Miss Dozier, president; Nickie Abbott, vice president; Kelly Cox, secretary; Kim Steelman, treasurer; Sherry Knowles, historian; and Mrs. Lanette Whitley, advisor.

Dave Morris, Elaine Smiley and Shelley Dozier, members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter at Canyon High School, watched Friday as Mayor J. Manly Bryan signed a proclamation designating the week of April 1-7 as National F.H.A. Week in Canyon.

Photo Feature Will Benefit Heart Fund

Tickets are available locally for an Amarillo showing April 8 of "Mexico—a Photo Adventure."

The movie, a wide-screen travel film produced by Eastman Kodak Co., is sponsored at 2 p.m. by the Amarillo-Potter County Division of the American Heart Association.

Tickets may be obtained in Canyon at the West Texas State University activities center or at First National Bank or West Texas State Bank.

Tickets are $1 each.

Proceeds from the show go to the heart association.

Dramatists Present 'Carnival'

The award-winning musical Carnival begins Wednesday night for an eight-day split run on the West Texas State University campus.

The musical, an adaptation for stage of a 1953 motion picture, will play each evening at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus as a presentation of the School of Fine Arts.

Musical director and producer of the WTSU production is Royal Brantley, associate professor of music. Stage director is William A. Moore, associate professor of drama, and his wife, Margaret Echols Moore, is acting coach.

Neil Hess, Amarillo dancemaster, is choreographer and James Kemmerling, instructor in speech, is technical director. Jerry Doan, instructor in voice, is assistant musical director, and Michael Matesky, assistant professor of music, is orchestra conductor.

The musical will run Wednesday through Saturday and again April 10-13.

The story of Carnival is just that, the story of a traveling show and the people who are in it. Chief character is Lili, an orphan, soon befriended by four remarkable puppets she accepts as real people.

The romance of the story emerges when she meets the man behind the puppets, the crippled and embittered puppeteer, Paul, who must vie with the villainous carnival magician, Marco, for the young girl's favor.

Vicki McFarlin, a senior and veteran of many productions, is cast as Lili and Stephen Hilton, Canyon senior, is the puppeteer Paul.

The carnival owner, Schlegel, is portrayed by Rodney Miller and Rick Davis is cast as Marco the Magnificent.

Other cast members include Linda McNeil as Rosalie, Marco's mistress; Rene Clemente as Jacquot, Paul's assistant puppeteer; and Ron Devoe as Dr. Glass, a veterinarian.

Chorus for the production consists of WTSU music and drama students and the dancers are composed of a group of students and students of the Hess School of Dance in Amarillo.

Little League Tryouts Set For Tue., Wed.

Tryouts for the Randall County Little League baseball program will begin Monday at 4:30 p.m. on the diamond behind Rex Reeves Elementary School.

The Monday sessions, along with tryouts Tuesday, will be for ten-year-old candidates. Tryouts for 11-and 12-year-old candidates will be held on Wednesday at the same time and place, said league president Weyman Brown.

According to Brown, players must take part in the tryouts if they are to be drafted by a Major League team. Players who cannot attend with their age group should try out with the other group.

Brown said players already assigned to Major League teams are not required to try out again.

Players in the 8- and 9-year-old bracket, and players who are not drafted by a Major League team, will be notified in early May regarding their team assignments, said Brown.

Major League play will begin May 1 and the Minor League and 8- to 9-year-old group will begin about May 25.

Appeal Continues For Easter Seals

Randall County's Easter Seal representative reported this week that the 1973 appeal of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults is going well.

David West serves as Easter Seal treasurer for the county.

The 1973 appeal finances the society's rehabilitation program for crippled children and adults in the state. The society helps support 18 treatment facilities in Texas where children and adults not eligible for other treatment are treated.

As the society's representative in Canyon, West is the person to be contacted concerning society assistance. He is vice president of First National Bank here.

Felix A. Pierce For Re-Election

Just a reminder of some of the major accomplishments of this city commission.

1. Streets have been widened.
2. New sewage disposal plant.
3. Sanitary landfill put in operation.
4. 2 new water wells at well field.
5. Million gallon water storage tank.
6. Super deluxe volunteer fire department.
7. New rating secured for city.
8. Drawings for new civic complex.

This has been accomplished without an increase in taxes. I see no reason why this kind of progress cannot continue without an increase in taxes.

I would say this has been a working city commission that I am proud to have been a member of.

I would welcome the opportunity to serve you for two more years, if you so desire.

The Farmer Browns and several other Canyon residents returned this week from a fishing trip to Old Mexico on Lake Hidalgo near El Fuerte. Brown reported fishing is good in the lake with plenty of five and six pound bass. In the party from Canyon were the Morris Abbots, Bud Kellers, Cecil Simms and Curtis Greens, and the Bob Goughs. Pictured here is Mrs. Brown, left, and Mrs. and Mrs. Gough.

Rev. And Mrs. Pettit Find Changes In Holy Land Trip

A region where the ancient past and immediate present are springing into clear focus is what Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Pettit Canyon's Assembly of God Church found on their recent trip to the Holy Land and Arab countries.

The Pettit's last trip to the Holy Land was a 16-day tour in 1968, about six months after the conclusion of the Ten Days War. On this journey they found marked changes in the countries they visited and the life style of the people there.

In the five years between visits, new vistas of Biblical times were disclosed through restorations of sites in Lebanon, Jordan, and particularly in the Israeli area of the Dead Sea where scrolls were found and the old city of Jericho.

At the same time the Pettits discovered vast progress had been made in the cultivation and industrialization of the area. Cities such as Beirut, Amman, and Jerusalem were now dotted with modern hotels and inns such as one sees in America, and Amman boasted a beautiful residential area with luxury homes to match any in this country.

In cities even like Damascus, the ancient crossroads of trade routes to the far East, the Canyon couple noticed men and women had adopted Western attire — long hair on males and pantsuits on women was common.

"You wouldn't have seen any of that on our first trip five years ago," said Rev. Pettit.

But also in keeping with the tenor of the times, he and his wife found a cool distrust of American visitors in the Arab countries. At ports of entry they and their bus were thoroughly searched, and their Arabian bus driver gave them a lecture on their conduct during their stay.

"Some of the people were polite, but some were not," said Pettit. "We are going back to the Holy Land again, but not to the Arab countries."

He was glad, however, to have seen such historic sites as Baalbek, considered the most important site of the Roman period, and Petra, an ancient city carved out of rock.

Memorable experiences like having communion in The Upper Room in Jerusalem, boating across the sea of Galilee, and being part of a Papal audience make the Pettits want to repeat their tour.

Also taking the recent Holy Land tour with the Pettits were Rev. and Mrs. Carl Wagner, Canyon residents who are also members of the Assembly of God Church.

Their group numbered 15 when they left Amarillo on March 12, and they soon picked up 14 more fellow travelers in Dallas. Brief stops were made in New York and Brussels before they landed and disembarked in Beirut, Lebanon.

"Lebanon is the most advanced of all Arab countries in agriculture," said Rev. Pettit. "There is beautiful farming land there, well cared for." Their principal industries, besides tourism, are raising grapes, poultry and eggs for export as well as local consumption.

On the bus trip between Beirut and Amman the couple saw ancient ruins at Baalbek of the Great Citadel, and Temples of Jupiter, Bacchus and Venus. They also toured Jerash, the Pompeii of the Middle East, viewing the Temple of Zeus, a colonnaded Forum, Hippodrome, baths, three large theaters, a Triumphal Arch, a Nymphaeum, and many Byzantine churches.

"It was called the eighth wonder of the world, and it was something to see," said Rev. Pettit. "It is much larger and more impressive than the ruins in Rome or Athens — in fact, you could put half a dozen Acropolises in it."

Amman, the capitol of Jordan, was the largest and most modern of the Arab cities. With about a million inhabitants, it was notable for many large, modern American-type hotels and beautiful homes — all constructed of the native granite and marble. They were impressed also with the grandeur of the capitol, and parliament buildings and King Hussein's palace and its grounds.

While based in Amman, the Pettits' tour group made a one-day trip to Petra, a city of ancient palaces, tombs and temples carved from rock. Here they saw the tents of Bedouins and their large herds of camels, goats and sheep.

"The Bedouins are said to trade 40 or 50 camels for a pretty girl," said Pettit. "If a man is fortunate enough to receive camels in return for his daughters as brides, he is a rich man because a camel sells for between $400 and $1,000." He added that camel meat was a staple served in most of the hotels, although he did not sample any of it.

Crossing the Allenby Bridge from Jordan into Israel, the group sensed an entirely new feeling of friendliness and freedom. "We were received with open arms," said Pettit.

On the way into Jerusalem, they saw beautiful farms and banana plantations, all irrigated, as well as newly industrialized areas. Biblical sites viewed included the sycamore tree that Zacchaeus climbed into to see Jesus and the old fortress city of Jericho. "The Ford Foundation has been spending millions of dollars in restoring Biblical and historical sites here and throughout the Holy Land," said Rev. Pettit. Late in the afternoon they visited the area where the Dead Sea Scrolls were discovered.

The next three days the group spent touring Biblical sites in Israel. Their agenda included a boat ride from Capernaum across the Sea of Galilee to Tiberius, and from there to Nazareth. Bethlehem, the Garden tomb in Jerusalem, the Upper Room, and Calvary were other notable stops.

"We had just arrived to have 8 a.m. communion on Sunday morning when an unusual incident took place. We found the people just finishing communion before us in the Upper Room were a group from the Amarillo Church of Christ," Pettit said. He described the service there as a "beautiful, touching and spiritual moment."

Calvary was observed from a concrete and steel observation point about 100 feet away because the cemetery in which it is situated is controlled by Moslems.

Although Jerusalem was thronged with tourists from every part of the world, the group from Texas found no difficulty in moving about and getting to their appointments and meals on time.

On the homeward trip, the tour made a two-day stopover in Rome where they visited the Vatican and had audience with the Pope.

"It is an experience which not many people have in a lifetime," commented Rev. Pettit. "You have to request tickets, which cost nothing, three months in advance. A number of groups are received at the same time in an auditorium next to the Vatican. He recognizes each group and asks them to stand, and then repeats a blessing on them during their stay in Rome." English not being one of the Pope's four languages, he spoke through an interpreter to the Texas group.

Rev. Pettit said his trip had been "very inspirational. We had a near perfect trip. There were no unpleasant incidents in the air or traveling at all, and the weather was ideal."

The Rev. and Mrs. A.J. Pettit

Community To Honor Levi Cole Today

Many Canyon News advertisers pay special tribute to Levi Cole, Canyon banker for 50 years, in this issue.

Cole, who came to Canyon's First National Bank in 1923, is to be honored with a reception today in recognition of his 70th birthday.

The reception will be from 3 to 5 p.m. at the community room of the First National Bank. The public is invited to attend.

Cole is now chairman of the board of the Canyon bank. Prior to assuming the position as chairman, he served many years as president of the bank.

Well-known in Canyon, Cole served as a scoutmaster here for 15 years and was recently given the Silver Beaver Award by the Boy Scouts.

His hobbies include gardening, hunting and fishing. Cole has become famous as an expert in gardening.

He also collects paintings.

The veteran Canyon banker told The News several years ago of a particular incident in his banking career -- a daring bank robbery pulled in January of 1931.

Apparently familiar with the layout of the bank and its officers, the robbers went to the home of Cole about 4:30 a.m. and turned flashlights on Cole and his wife, ordering them to get dressed.

Bound and blindfolded, the Coles were taken to the bank where shortly before 7 a.m., Cole was forced to open the back vault of the bank.

Later the crooks also opened another vault.

Shortly before opening time, W. C. Black, bank president, and Sheriff John Fry walked into the bank and were also bound and gagged.

After the robbers fled with $13,804, Black was able to free himself enough to call police.

A pair later arrested on the charge was not convicted even though Cole is convinced they did it.

Farmers Union To Hold Dist. Banquet Friday

The Randall-Potter County Farmers Union will host a District 1 banquet Friday at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo. The time is 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the gathering will be Victor Ray of the Farmers Union national office in Denver.

Ray, who is assistant to the national president, will speak on recent cutbacks in the national farm program.

A dance, featuring the "Young Country Sounds," will follow the meeting and banquet.

Lolmaugh Trial Faces Delay

Another delay in the trial of Marvin Edward Lolmaugh, 30, charged with the shooting death of his father-in-law, appeared as a possibility late last week.

The trial was set to begin Monday in 181st District Court here.

However, due to a heavy civil jury trial schedule, it appeared at week's end the trial would be delayed until May.

Lolmaugh is charged with the murder of Leonard Eugene Mullin on Nov. 7, 1972.

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it—an so do its readers.

Instructor for the course will be John Staat of Hidden Falls Ranch.

Lt. Col. John Childs, who is heading up the promotional activities for the film, said the movie, which depicts the religious awakening of a young man alienated from family and society in general, will be shown April 11 through 14 in Canyon's Varsity Theatre.

AAUP Talks Tenure, Faculty Participation

Members of the West Texas State University chapter of the American Association of University Professors reviewed Thursday university tenure policies and discussed possible formation of a faculty senate at the school.

Pete Petersen, AAUP president, said members simply discussed current WTSU tenure policies with an eye to making suggestions for change in the policies.

A good part of the Thursday meeting centered around the discussion of formation of a faculty senate.

"One faculty member said he thinks the faculty council is invisible," Petersen said.

A discussion followed concerning the role of the council.

Petersen appointed three men to a committee to examine means available in other universities for faculty participation in governing universities.

Again, Petersen said it is possible after the review that certain recommendations will be made concerning the bolstering of faculty participation on campus.

Cancer Drive Begins Tuesday

The business and residential drives for the American Cancer Society campaign in Canyon begin Tuesday morning.

With a goal of $5,000, more than two dozen campaign workers will breakfast at 7 a.m. Tuesday at the West Texas State University cafeteria to hear plans for the campaign which begins the same day.

Advance drive for the Cancer Society concluded last week.

Carroll Wilson and Mary Alice Hines are heading the business drive, which will see campaign workers seeking donations from more than 130 Canyon businesses.

Mrs. Carolyn Hunt will head up the residential drive in the city starting Tuesday.

Mayor Manly Bryan signed a proclamation Friday naming Tuesday as Cancer Awareness Day and naming the week as Cancer Awareness Week in the city.

Benny Cooper is this year's campaign chairman.

Absentee Voting Remains Light

Absentee balloting for the school board, hospital board and county school board elections ends Tuesday afternoon.

So far, voting is light in the absentee boxes.

School board voting officials report 18 absentee ballots have been cast through Friday. No absentee ballots have been cast in the county school board election.

Fewer than half a dozen have voted absentee in the hospital board election.

Election date for all three elections is Saturday.

Seven persons are seeking election to two places on the Canyon School Board.

Five persons are seeking four places on the South Randall County Hospital District Board, and two persons are seeking election to the county board of school trustees.

Absentee ballots for the school board election and the county school board election may be cast at the school tax office in the Canyon courthouse. Ballots may be cast in absentia in the hospital board election at Neblett Hospital.

Bonds Sales Above Goal

February Sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds totaled $28,176 while sales for the two-month beginning year period were $41,703 for 19 per cent of the 1973 sales goal here.

Don Max Vars, chairman of the Randall County Savings Bond Committee, said Texas sales during the month amounted to more than $21 million compared to $19 million during February 1972. Sales state-wide for the first two months totaled more than $45 million for 21 per cent of the annual sales goal of $216.6 million.

D. Crow Exhibit Opens In Lubbock

A showing of the recent works of artist D. Crow of Texas, well known throughout the Southwest for her lovely paintings of the Texas bluebonnet, will be held at the House of Alexander gallery April 1 through 7 in Lubbock.

"The Breath of Spring" collection, as the exhibit is titled, will include the original painting "Patch of Blue" which appears on telephone directories in South Austin, five counties of the Hill Country, and D. Crow's hometown of Canyon.

A reception for the Canyon artist will be held at the European styled diamond house and art gallery at 5 p.m. today in Lubbock at 2001 Broadway.

The artist gained state-wide acclaim in 1970 when she was singularly honored by the Texas Legislature for painting the state flower for 25 years. She had, they noted, "contributed much to the knowledge and appreciation of the bluebonnet throughout the Southwest, and through her ability to paint she has greatly enhanced the enjoyment of the beautiful State flower by thousands of Texas citizens."

They congratulated her upon her many accomplishments and commended her for her great contributions to the State of Texas.

One of her oils, "Bluebonnet Time in Texas" was hung for permanent display in the Governor's private office during Preston Smith's term. Mrs. Crow, that same year, was among four artists in the state to be nominated as Texas' State Artist for the year ending April, 1971.

During this current legislative session numerous D. Crow oils are enhancing the offices of State Representatives Bryan Poff of Amarillo and Phil Cates of Pampa.

Exhibits in Austin and in Borger are currently in the planning stages for the artist. And, though a place has not been announced for the Austin show, it is expected to be held either at the State Capitol or at the historic Driskell Hotel.

Perhaps the most famous owner of a D. Crow oil is Mrs. Luci Nugent, who in a personal note to the artist said that her paintings "portray a part of Texas that is especially dear to my heart."

Mrs. Crow will soon be featured in a book entitled "Artists who have Portrayed the American West" written by Phil Kovenick of Los Angeles, Calif.

News Brief

Amarillo's A&M Mothers Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. R. H. Lumry of 505 Taylor Lane in Canyon. Canyon members will be hostesses. Mrs. Lumry will present a program on Japanese flower arranging.

Dr. J. Manly Bryan, Canyon's mayor, signs a proclamation naming Tuesday as Cancer Awareness Day in the city and naming the week as Cancer Awareness Week. Benny Cooper, left, is chairman of the American Cancer Society campaign here, and Mrs. Carolyn Hunt is chairman of the residential drive of the campaign.

DESPITE THE DOWNPOUR, a fairly large group of people turned out Thursday night to hear former high state department official Charles E. Bohlen. How reassuring to hear a speaker—erudite, not exciting but anyway informed—speaking with guarded optimism of future Soviet-American relations. To his list of factors that will influence those relations, I mentally added one of my own—a moonly image of this mist-swaddled, blue-green planet floating in blackest space — singular, splendid, and very, very fragile.

LEGALS

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

relating to the establishment of the Randall County Juvenile Board and the juvenile probation department; maintaining in office those persons serving as juvenile officers on the effective date of this Act; and declaring an emergency.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. The Juvenile Board of Randall County is created, and is composed of the judges of the district courts having jurisdiction in Randall County and the county judge.

Section 2. The Juvenile Board shall create the Juvenile Court and shall appoint the Judge of the Juvenile Court, who shall serve as the chairman of the Juvenile Board and shall be its chief administrative officer.

Section 3. There shall be one chief probation officer who shall be appointed by the Juvenile Board. The chief probation officer shall appoint a sufficient number of assistants and other employees to carry on the professional, clerical, and other work of the juvenile court, subject to the approval of the Juvenile Board.

Section 4. The Juvenile Board is authorized, with the advice and consent of the commissioners court, to employ and designate the titles and fix the salaries of probation officers and such administrative, supervisory, stenographic, clerical, and other personnel as may be necessary.

Section 5. The Juvenile Board shall have direction and control over all juvenile officers and may make rules and regulations to implement that direction and control.

Section 6. The Juvenile Board shall have authority to require and approve a good and sufficient surety or personal bond for the faithful performance of duty of any juvenile officer, in such sum as may be determined by the board.

Section 7. Probation officers shall be furnished transportation, or alternatively, shall be entitled to an automobile allowance for use of personal automobile on official business under the same terms and conditions as is provided for sheriffs.

Section 8. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to affect the status of a person serving as juvenile officer or assistant juvenile officer on the effective date of this Act or to require a new appointment of the officers during their current terms of office.

Section 9. For the added duties hereby imposed on the members of the board, the commissioners court of the county may allow the members of the board compensation from the county general fund. This compensation shall be in addition to any other salary received by the members of the board.

Section 10. The importance of this legislation and the crowded condition of the calendars in both houses create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the Constitutional Rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and this Rule is hereby suspended, and that this Act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Soviets . . .

tacked by the Soviets in 1939.

Bohlen said the Communist leaders possessed dual characters by wanting to rule all of Russian soil and at the same time be the leader and "spiritual God" of world revolution.

The great revolution that took place in Russia, said Bohlen, was not one of the majority of people. He said Communism was where a few people rule many.

Despite the speaker's statement that Russia is now noted for paying debts, he said that the country's debts helped bring about a break of relations with the U.S. in 1917.

In the mid-30s, under Roosevelt, it was a military buildup by Japan that brought about resumption of relations, said Bohlen. The thinking at the time had been that, in view of the rising threat of Japan, the two largest nations "should be friends."

During World War II, said Bohlen, the U.S. and other allies again found that dealing with the Kremlin was not all that it appeared to be. He blamed the Soviets for making the meeting at Yalta a failure.

Bohlen blamed the failure of the Yalta conference on lack of cooperation from the Soviets in trying to deal with the future of Poland. The speaker said all countries involved in the ill-fated conference tried to get Stalin to allow Poland to choose its own form of government. "Russia shut the door," said Bohlen.

The reason for Stalin's stubbornness, said Bohlen, was due to the dictator being given "poor advice" regarding Poland. Contrary to reports made to Stalin, "no open arms and flowers met Russian troops" when they arrived in Poland.

Current and future diplomatic relations between the U.S. and the Soviet governments depend greatly on the SALT talks now underway in Geneva, and on action taken in the U.S. Congress.

Relations would be greatly strained should Congressional action erase trade agreements signed by President Richard Nixon during his Moscow visit last year, Bohlen said.

According to the veteran of many diplomatic maneuvers, the Soviet Union desperately needs access to U.S. technology due to their "limping industry."

Bohlen added that Russia also put importance on U.S. friendship because of a fear of "collusion" between this country and Red China. He said that China is Russia's arch rival and he predicted eventual clashes between the two highly populated powers.

Speaking of military

strengths, Bohlen said that Russia has built up a "parity" in nuclear armaments sufficient to stabilize the nuclear picture. This near-equal military strength helped assure that neither country would attack the other because the nuclear forces on both sides would cause "unacceptable damage" and result in suicide.

Throughout his talk, Bohlen cited the Kremlin's failure to live up to "the great hopes and expectations" often envisioned by the U.S. He said he hoped "the present guarded optimism" of the U.S. concerning future Soviet policy would not again end in frustration and disappointment.

While blaming Russia for the failure of the Yalta meeting, Bohlen credited them with playing a major role in the success of an earlier conference which led to the end of World War II in Europe.

At the Teheran conference in November of 1943, said Bohlen, Russia "finally cooperated" and helped make it "our most successful conference with the U.S.S.R."

Bohlen termed Yalta as "misinterpreted more than any such meeting, and a favorite whipping boy of anti-Roosevelt sentiment fueled by Joe McCarthy."

In recent times, according to Bohlen, the U.S. has been in full confrontation with the Soviet Union on five or six occasions. He cited the first as being Iran in 1946. It was the first time that the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. had been face-to-face, "and we won."

The Berlin Blockade of 1948, Korea in 1950, a "built-in crisis" concerning East Germany from 1958 to 1962, and the Cuban Missile Crisis in late 1962 were mentioned as times of chilled relations between the two major powers. The U.S. was able to meet these critical times because of "good sense of our leaders and the U.S.S.R.'s appreciation of power," Bohlen said.

In summing up the Russian leaders, Bohlen said, "They only respect power in international relations."

Bohlen, who appeared at the university through the Special Programs Committee, served as ambassador to the Philippines, France and Russia, and led negotiations at Potsdam, Yalta and Teheran. The native of New York state also headed U.S. delegations at Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco, conferences that led to the formation of the United Nations.

Bohlen retired in 1969 as dean of the U.S. foreign service. He served under six Presidents, beginning with Roosevelt and ending with Nixon.

His wife, Susan, is a native of Houston and met Carroll while a student at Amarillo College. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sam Bryan, Jr., of Houston.

The Wilsons are active in community affairs. They are members of the Presbyterian Church where they teach a Sunday School class.

They have one child, a daughter, D'Arcy, 3 years old.

Zilka . . .

study the proceedings and file his decision with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The judge ordered Zilka be returned to the Texas state penitentiary.

The court of criminal appeals has already upheld Zilka's conviction of the rape of a 3-year-old girl.

Testifying in his own behalf Friday, Zilka, clad in khaki pants and wrinkled windbreaker, told the court he pleaded guilty to a series of charges involving car theft, prison break and larceny in 1953 in Pennsylvania.

He said he had no attorney in the cases and was never advised of his right to have an attorney in those cases. He said to his knowledge he never waived the right to an attorney.

A 1965 Supreme Court decision made retroactive the requirement that all persons accused of a felony offense be represented by an attorney.

The state, represented by Dowlen, who also took the stand, does not contend that Zilka had an attorney, but rather contends that the current dispute is the result of error.

Zilka testified that Dowlen introduced into court proceedings during his 1964 trial here testimony that Zilka had been convicted of the 1953 felony Pennsylvania offenses.

He alleges his testimony was impeached by the testimony and the trial was not fair from that standpoint.

Dowlen contended on the stand that the testimony concerning the prior convictions was not the sole or even a major basis for his case in the 1964 trial.

He said he could not remember whether he had used testimony concerning the convictions in his final argument to the jury in that case, but testified that he believes he did not.

Zilka was charged early in 1964 with the rape of the 3-year-old daughter of his common-law wife.

Dowlen said the convict is eligible for parole in September.

Bills . . .

rather than dipped.

The bill was reported out of committee favorably and now awaits action by the full House.

Poff's bill to give cattle owners a 30-day period within which to dip cattle moved into a quarantined area from out-of-state has been passed to a favorable subcommittee.

Poff reports it was well received by members of the House agriculture committee. He expects the bill to be reported to the full House by Wednesday.

The bill will also exempt feedlots from dipping requirements.

"These bills will help update the antiquated regulations cattlemen now are forced to operate under," Poff said. "We don't want to see these cattlemen have to go through another winter losing cattle because of the present regulations."

Labor . . .

cent while wages were allowed to increase only 5.5 per cent.

Nixon sold Americans on the idea of economic controls, and now, even though they are hesitant, labor unions are calling for control of profits.

Evans said today's national labor leadership is unable to cope with today's labor problems.

"George Meany should have retired in 1965," he said.

Problems for today's working man will not be solved at the state level, Evans said.

"Legislators are too subject to all kinds of pressures," including pressure from lobbyists, he said.

The only entity which can solve the problems of economics in the country is the Congress, he said.

"We don't have faith in the man in the White House now," he said. "It must come from Congress. It's the only strength the people have. The only way you have to effect reform and solve problems.

About 75 persons attended the evening buffet and speech.

Initially, he said, the officers knocked at the door and announced they were policemen.

Dowlen said mere presence when a felony is committed does not necessarily make a person a party to that felony unless it can be proven a person is aiding and abetting the commission of the felony.

The district attorney said in the case of the Thursday drug raid the presence of the other 11 persons could not be construed as necessarily aiding and abetting the commission of a felony.

sumers would accept his listings.

Consumer attitudes are changing, Price said, primarily due to rising costs in their own kitchens and also due to the lower age groups which are frequenting restaurants.

"They are more demanding," he said. "They do not mind paying the price, but they want the quality and not quantity."

Restaurant owners are also faced with rapidly rising prices, particularly in meats.

Price warns restaurant operators to hold the line on prices until they are absolutely forced to increase prices.

W. H. Price

"We tell them not to price themselves out of business," he said.

Price said meat prices are expected to level off this summer.

Meanwhile, he said, most restaurant operators in Texas are basically trying to hold the line on their prices.

During his speech Thursday night, Price told members of the Panhandle association to examine closely their systems of internal control, their relations with labor, their problems with breakage and theft and any other factors which might be costing them unnecessary money.

All American Signs With WT

Mike McVay, a high school All-American football player from Beaver, Okla., has signed a pre-enrollment application to play football at West Texas State University.

The 6-1, 200-pounder compiled one of the standout punting averages of the nation in 1972. He punted 46 times for a 45.1-yard average. He kicked 24 times as a junior for a 43.1-yard average.

McVay was also the starting quarterback at Beaver High School for three years. As a sophomore he completed 29 of 52 passes for 527 yards and rushed 88 times for 275 yards.

During his junior year at Beaver, he compiled a 7-3 record, completed 44 of 82 passes for 535 yards and ran 52 times for 270 yards. This past season he led his team to a 9-2 record by completing 52 of 103 passes for 887 yards and rushed 91 times for 422 yards.

Of the 237 passes McVay threw during three years as a regular quarterback, he was intercepted only seven times.

As a placement kicker this past fall he converted on 19 of 23 extra point attempts. He was a regular linebacker on defense.

As a junior McVay was named to the all-area team. He gained all-district, all-area and all-state honors this past season and was named to the Coach and Athlete Magazine All-American team. He was also mentioned as an All-American by Scholastic Coach Magazine. He has been named to the all-star squad for the Oklahoma High School Coaches Association game at Tulsa in August.

McVay, who has 4.9 speed in the 40-yard dash, is also a nominee for the Jim Thorpe Football Award, which will be presented April 16 in Ponca City, Okla. Six football players from the state of Oklahoma are among the nominees.

For the past two years McVay has been the number one man on the Beaver High School golf team. He lettered in basketball this past season and qualified for the state meet in the discus as a track team member last spring.

He carries a 3.5 overall grade point average in high school, but has earned straight A grades for the past two semesters. He plans to major in biology.

Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McVay. His father is the head coach at Beaver High School and has won three state titles at that school in the past 15 years. He also has two other state high school football championships to his credit.

Buffs Eye New Offense, Stress Passing

It's been sloggy going for the 91 football candidates who reported early last week as the West Texas State University Buffaloes opened spring drills.

The Buffs, who opened spring practice Monday, have fallen victim to the almost continuous rains last week and were able to drill only two days of five.

The team was to workout Saturday.

First scrimmage for the Buffs is tentatively set for Saturday.

The rain has posed a particular problem for Coach Gene Mayfield since he is attempting to try-out a new offense for the Buffaloes. During the two days of practice last week the Buffs eyed the I offense and stressed a solid passing game.

But, if the weather continues to hamper Buffaloe practices, the head WTSU coach may not get the look at the new offense he needs to determine its possibilities for the Buffs.

The Buffs are set to work two more weeks before the spring semester break April 13 and then take up workouts when school starts again April 23.

Final spring game is currently set for April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Hereford. The Buffs will scrimmage that night in Hereford even if bad weather forces several earlier practice sessions to be called.

Mayfield and his staff will spend considerable time this spring working on a passing game.

"We led the Missouri Valley Conference in rushing last fall, but were last in passing," said Mayfield. "We would like to get more of a balance in the offense."

The Buffaloes will spend considerable time in the spring looking at the I formation, which is better suited to the passing game than is the Wishbone-T which the Buffaloes used so effectively running the ball last fall.

Mike Wartes and Bob Sweat return from last year's team, which had a 5-5 season record and a 4-1 Missouri Valley Conference mark to tie with Drake and Louisville for the title, as quarterbacks. Junior college transfer Don Nava, freshman lettermen Mike Adams and Chuck Wright and red-shirt Bobby Nowak will all get a shot at the signal-calling position this spring.

"We aren't planning to junk the Wishbone as it has been so good to us in the past, but we will probably spend much of the spring looking at other formations," said Mayfield.

Mayfield and his staff can well look at other positions in which their offensive players can shine as there are nine returning offensive starters back from last year's squad and they are well versed on the Wishbone-T.

The Buffaloes also return nine defensive starters from the 1972 team. Two starters, one on offense and one on defense, will miss spring drills because of off-season operations. Running back Billy Pritchett has undergone surgery to correct a knee injury and linebacker Bruce Davis had back surgery.

Among the 91 players out for spring drills, 45 of them are returning lettermen. There are 31 players up from the freshman team which had a 5-1 record this past fall.

Seven Colleges In Tourney Sponsored By WTSU Netters

West Texas State University will host seven colleges and universities for a team tennis tournament Thursday through Saturday and the Buffaloes of coach David Kent will have a tough time placing in the top four.

Other teams entered at University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma City University, University of Colorado, University of Arkansas, Amarillo College, New Mexico State University and Southeastern Oklahoma State.

The tournament will be played at three sites — West Texas State's courts, the Amarillo College courts at Memorial Park and the Amarillo Tennis Center.

Oklahoma City University, in the top bracket, and the University of Oklahoma, in the bottom bracket, are probably the teams to beat in the tournament. Oklahoma City holds a win this year over powerful University of Houston, which is ranked among the nation's top 10 teams.

The University of Oklahoma captured the Big Eight Conference championship and the University of Colorado placed second in that tourney. Arkansas holds wins this year over Memphis State and Alabama and has a much stronger team than in recent years.

Coach David Kent's West Texas State team will take a 10-2 record into the tourney. The Buffaloes lost a pair of early season matches by 5-4 margins in the University of Corpus Christi Tournament. The Buffaloes fell to Texas A&M and the University of New Mexico.

Depth has paid off for the Buffaloes this season as the numbers four, five and six players have compiled standout records. Wichita Falls junior Dale Corbin is 10-2 in the number four position. Joe Carrick of El Paso is 11-1 as the number five singles player and sixth man Scott Pool is 8-3.

Bill Marsh, the Buffaloes' number one man, has a 7-5 season record. Mike Bolton, team captain from Vancouver, B.C., is 8-4 and number three man John Phillips of Snyder is 8-4.

In doubles the Marsh-Bolton team, playing number one, is 10-2 for the year. Corbin and Phillips are 10-2 in the number two position, while Carrick and Pool have a 9-2 standard as the number three team.

In opening round matches at 1 p.m. Thursday, two are set at the Amarillo Tennis Center. Oklahoma and Colorado play in a match which will also be counted as a Big Eight Conference contest. At the same time, Oklahoma City will play Southeastern Oklahoma at the Tennis Center.

West Texas State will face Missouri Valley Conference foe New Mexico State University at 1 p.m. Thursday at West Texas State and Arkansas will play Amarillo College at the same time on the Memorial Park courts.

The WTSU-New Mexico State winner will play the Oklahoma City-Southeastern winner at 1 p.m. Friday at West Texas State. The Oklahoma-Colorado victor will meet the winner of the Amarillo College-Arkansas match at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Canyon. The bottom bracket losers meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Amarillo Tennis Center and at the same time on the same location the upper bracket losers will play.

The championship match will be played in Canyon at 1 p.m. and the third place match is slated for 9:30 a.m. in Canyon. The consolation championship and seventh place matches are set for 9:30 a.m. at the ATC.

"We have scheduled the matches for both Amarillo and Canyon to give more people a chance to see fine collegiate tennis," said Kent. Admission to all matches is free.

ROTC On Upswing Says Visiting Col.

ROTC, a program much maligned during the Vietnam War, is now finding enrollment on the upswing as American involvement has ended in Southeast Asia, a representative of the commanding general of 5th U.S. Army said Thursday.

Col. George B. Robbins Jr., commandant of New Mexico Military Institute, said he feels high school ROTC enrollments are increasing as are college enrollments in ROTC.

Robbins was leader of a team of inspectors in Canyon to look over the West Texas State University ROTC detachment.

Robbins said the Army, with its strength reduced to far below the million-man mark, is now stressing quality rather than quantity in its ROTC programs and enrollment numbers is no longer a criteria of excellence in the Army-sponsored program which produces officers for the Armed Forces.

The colonel said he feels the ROTC programs in this country are now gearing to upgrade quality.

"We have better quality because the people who are in the program now are people who want to be in it," he said. "From an overall viewpoint, although the program is smaller it is certainly healthier."

While quality is on the upswing, Robbins still sees the Army and its campus counterpart in a transitional period when quantity is still needed. Due to recent reductions in Army manpower, the Army is understrength.

Soon, he predicted, the Army strength will stabilize then the real moves toward quality will begin.

While Robbins sees an increase in campus enrollments on the university level, he sees an even greater interest in ROTC at the high school level.

He noted that at NMMI, an increase of more than 200 students occurred this year over last year.

Robbins spent a good part of the day Thursday viewing the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and Palo Duro Canyon and he was treated to lunch with administration officials.

Lt. Col. John Childs is professor of military science at WTSU.

Little Interest Shown In Game Law Meeting

A public hearing regarding possible changes in Texas game laws, held by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at the courthouse in Canyon Thursday, drew little attention from outdoorsmen.

Proposals for future changes discussed were the possibility of extending the pheasant season from nine days to about 16 days, and the changing of the present limit on turkey from one bird, either sex, to one gobbler or bearded hen.

The law regarding the five-hook limit on throw-lines was also explained.

Bob West of the state game department served as hearing officer. Other game officials in attendance were warden Stan McDonough, wildlife officer Dick Demente and inland fisheries officer Ben Bagwell.

Possible increases in hunting and fishing fees were not discussed. According to the officials present, such fees are set by the Texas Legislature, which took no action on proposed increases during the session in 1972.

Ekker To Count On Defense For MVC Wars

New head basketball Coach Ron Ekker flew into town Thursday morning, met with two assistants, talked with the press and then headed out to recruit.

Ekker, hired last week to lead the West Texas State University basketball Buffaloes, made the first change in the university basketball program by announcing Saturday the hiring of Mike Mitchell as his assistant.

Dale Blaut was not rehired. Both Blaut and Mitchell had assisted former coach Dennis Walling, who resigned three weeks ago under fire.

Ekker told newsmen Thursday morning he will probably bring in a former assistant to aid him and Mitchell in coaching the Buffs, who fell to their worst season record in several years this season.

In announcing the rehiring of Mitchell, Ekker, former head coach at Hillsdale College in Michigan, said "I felt that both Mike and Dale were outstanding candidates for the assistant coach position. I am sure Dale will do outstanding work in the coaching profession and anyone who obtains his services will be highly rewarded."

Ekker termed Mitchell "an aggressive recruiter and a person who will add continuity from the past basketball program to our new program."

Addition of a second assistant coach is expected this week.

During a morning press conference in Canyon Thursday, Ekker told newsmen the key to his teams' phenomenal success has been strong defense, including use of a full-time, full-court press.

Ekker comes to WTSU sporting a 104-56 won-loss record in his six years as a head basketball coach. He has never, in fact, had a losing season as a head coach.

The new coach said he feels development of a strong defense is the key to winning in the Missouri Valley Conference.

And, he made it plain he has his eyes on that goal.

Ekker said he feels that although recruiting is an important facet of the game, he doesn't feel WTSU's team is unduly hampered by the lack of time for recruiting this spring.

He indicated there is a possibility one man he recruited for Hillsdale might follow him to WTSU to play.

Ekker said he plans to focus his initial efforts in recruiting in the Panhandle area. Specifically, he said he hopes to continue to talk with Hereford's standout athlete Keith Kitchens about coming to the university.

In recruiting, Ekker said he will not wholly concentrate on attracting players from either high schools or junior colleges. His goal, rather will be to find and attract the best players possible.

Ron Ekker

Athletic Director Gene Mayfield revealed that Ekker has been signed to a three-year contract for an annual salary in the neighborhood of $17,000.

Ekker said his family will remain in Michigan until the close of the school year when they expect to move to Canyon.

Buffalo Lake Opens Today For Fishing

Fishermen are expected to storm Buffalo Lake today, weather providing, for the first season in five years the lake has been open for fishing.

The catch this year will be primarily catfish. In fact, 20,000 channel catfish were stocked in the lake just Thursday.

The gate at the lake opens at 6 a.m. today and will close daily at 10 p.m.

Paul Ferguson, manager of the lake, said net checks reveal catfish with average weights at 3/4 of a pound.

Fishing will be in accordance with state regulations, Ferguson said, and boating for fishing will be permitted April through September.

Other activities currently available to the public include sightseeing, nature observing, environmental study, photography, hiking and picnicing and camping in designated areas.

No entry charge is made to the lake area.

Cellist To Be Featured In Sun. Concert

One of the most highly acclaimed cellists in the music world will be featured in concert April 8 at West Texas State University.

Gabor Rejto, chairman of the string department at the University of Southern California, will perform at 3 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

A public reception in the Formal Lounge will follow the performance. After the reception Rejto will conduct master classes for WTSU string students.

Described as a "fabulous cellist" by the New York Herald Tribune, Rejto has received similar notices from critics throughout the country.

Reviewing one of his performances at Eastman, one critic hailed him for his ability to perform amazlingly complex musical feats. Another critic described Rejto as having "the rare combination of utmost suavity with a flame-like intensity."

Summarizing a Rejto performance, San Francisco Chronicle critic Alfred Frankenstein wrote that "having heard a work performed by Rejto, one feels one will never hear it in a more thoroughly developed, complete, or more perfectly realized interpretation."

Born in Budapest in 1916, Rejto graduated from the Royal Academy there and then went to Spain to study with the renowned Pablo Casals, from whom he is said to have acquired his technique of producing his "vibrant, sustained tone."

Rejto has appeared with the Vienna Symphony, the Budapest Symphony, the Rome Philharmonic and other major symphony orchestras in Europe.

In 1939 Rejto came to the United States where he became a member of the Lener and later the Gordon string quartets. He has also appeared with the Hungarian and Paganini quartets.

Now cellist in the Alma Trio, his solo and chamber music tours have covered America, Australia, New Zealand and Japan.

He was chairman of the Eastman string department for five years. Since 1954 he has occupied that position at USC.

Rejto was recipient of the 1972 Artist-Teacher of the Year Award of the American String Teachers Association.

His appearance here is sponsored by the music department in conjunction with the WTSU Special Programs Committee. The concert is free.

Six Canyon students were initiated into Beta Beta Beta, national honorary biological society, this month at West Texas State University.

Juniors Rebecca Haley, William Rogers, Larry Tilger and sophomores Ronald Klein and James Tilger were among 24 students honored at a semi-annual initiation banquet.

Membership in Beta Beta Beta requires the completion of four biology courses with a 2.0 grade point average on a three point scale. Also the initiate must have completed 45 semester hours, and hold an overall average of 1.5.

Other students initiated into the society were Rosalind Rush of Sweetwater; Cori Brownd, Pennelope Gibson, Rebecca Morgan and Shera Hammett of Hereford; Janice Burton and Melody Murphey of Levelland; Beverly Colbert of Childress; Susan Cox of Hart; and Pamela Klein of Pampa.

Also Andrea Drake of Snyder; Jewell Ginter of Lipscomb; Deborah Graham of Midland; Tommie Posey and Dennis Williams of Amarillo; John McCormick of Dumas; Jerry Putman of Muleshoe; and Mary Heare of San Rafael, Cal.

Rain, Sandies Tough On Eagle Baseballers

The Canyon baseball Eagles again found foul weather their toughest competitor this past week, having a planned doubleheader with Liberal, Kan., rained out Friday.

The Eagles also got tough competition from Amarillo High School on Wednesday when they dropped an 8-0 decision at Amarillo.

Bill Moore hurled for the Eagles, who never seemed to get their normally hot bats out of the freezer. The only blow of note was a two-bagger chalked up by catcher Gary Gerber.

The Eagles garnered four hits and committed a pair of errors while the Sandies were scoring their win with 10 hits and no errors.

A trio of Sandie pitchers allowed just eight baserunners, with four coming on walks.

The loss left Canyon with a 3-5 season as they near the halfway point in the season.

Fourth In A Series

Disease Factors Must Be Controlled In Garden

(The following is the fourth in a series of articles on home gardening based on information from County Agent John Brazzil. Other articles will be appearing throughout the spring).

Disease can play a devastating role in home gardens if a proper prevention program is not followed, according to County Agent John Brazzil.

"A large variety of ever present disease-causing organisms are waiting for the vegetable garden," he said. "The home gardener must plan a disease prevention program and follow recommended control practices during the growing season."

Brazzil warned that failure to take simple prevention or control measures can result in a total waste of money and labor due to disease loss.

Some disease organisms arrive at the garden site through natural forces, others arrive in seeds or transplants while others are already in the garden soil, he said.

"The home gardner should select a site for the garden that is well drained," he said. "Surface water moving into a garden from another area can contaminate a garden soil."

Brazzil noted that animal manure should not be used where potatoes are grown since use of manure increases the chance for scab and scurf diseases.

"Water regularly to prevent very dry soil, but do not keep soil highly saturated," he said. "Do not wet foliage of vegetables late in the afternoon and do not sprinkle vegetables if other methods of watering are possible."

Vegetable varieties recommended for use in this area should be used, Brazzil said, since varieties which do well in, other areas may not do well here.

He also recommends that gardeners grow the same vegetable in the same garden location only once every three to five years.

"Gardners with small space may compensate in part by grouping vegetables and rotating between vine crops, root crops, peas or beans, corn and the family of plants containing tomatoes, pepper, okra and others.

"Chemical fungicides to control vegetable disease can be used," he said. "The keys to effective disease control with fungicides are early applications, use of right material for right vegetable and disease, thorough coverage of the plant, and repeated applications when weather conditions are favorable for disease development."

Stephen Hilton talks with Carrot Top, one of the puppets used in the West Texas State University stage production this week of "Carnival." Hilton stars in the musical as Paul, the crippled puppeteer. The show is scheduled Wednesday through Saturday and April 10 through 13. Show time is 8 p.m. nightly in the Fine Arts Theatre.
